Customer Partnership

Our Business Model

We have an integrated and inclusive business model that has served us, our people and our customers well, as RDR has grown rapidly, expanding into new markets, product areas and regions throughout the world. The real key to our success is the way we bring things together. We operate a downstream business, where we distribute and sell our products through our retail, wholesale and business-to-business relationships; and this is connected seamlessly to our midstream operations, through which we manage vast quantities of petroleum and petrochemical products, store them safely and transport them to wherever needed in the world.

Our Global Trade:

Global trade brings the world closer together. It grows the wealth of nations, forges common interests and builds mutual trust, and we make it our mission to do that responsibly. We deploy infrastructure, skills and our global network to move physical commodities from places they are plentiful to where they are most needed. We have been connecting our customers to the global economy by advancing trade.

RDR's core business is physical trading and logistics; our assets and investments complement and enhance these activities. With offices in main zones of the world, RDR's network is truly global.

In a fragmented market where no single company has a dominant position, we are one of the world's traders by big volume of oil, petroleum and petrochemical products.

Outlook:

- Well-Positioned for further growth and profit from developments
- Optimistic about the opportunities for further business developments
- Greater volatility by balancing between supply and demand in petroleum and petrochemical products

RDR's Strategy is not to build volume for its own sake but to seek critical mass across regions and product segments as a top-tier global player. Regionally, we further strengthened our position as a leading supplier and exporter of petroleum and petrochemical products and consolidated our position as one of the most active suppliers and purchasers of a pensioned group of products.
